CUTTING A FELLOW OUT.

THE ADVENTURES OF A VICTIM.

I once attempted to cut a fellow out, that is, poke my nose into his business, meddling with the affections of his gal, and got kicked for my pains. She is a nice gal, a fine gal is Mary Haines.

Levi Smith had been her acknowledged admirer for several years. He attended to all her little affairs of amiability, and it was said that they were, and for a long time had been engaged to be married—that I believe is the explanation. I would not say a word against Levi for the world; but somehow, it had become impressed upon my mind, that he was a spoony; besides he kicked me; I can't forget that; I would forget it if I could. 'Twas the happiest moment of my life, I felt proud, tickled, to think I'd been kicked by a Smith. He kicked me with a heartiness that convinced me he was in earnest, and thought he was serving me right. True, I felt mortified at the same time, not that I was kicked. Oh! Smith! Levi Smith! you kicked me in the presence of Mary Haines—and for what?

Smith courted Mary about five years before I thought of upsetting his applecart. Everybody, because it is customary to meddle with the business of everybody else, wondered why they did not get married; old folks said it was scandalous; young folks said they would not stand it; and the girls occasionally said they would sack him off; I considered the matter and concluded to cut him out and take her myself, go the whole figure, besiege the fortress and carry off the prize. I long had cherished a sneaking notion, and now I determined to let my feelings have full sway. Accordingly I opened a talk with Mary on the subject—I appealed to my admiration for her. I tickled her conceit with the long straw of flattery—I pitched into Smith until her dander raised up—I convinced her that Smith was trifling with her feelings; that fixed her flint, and she launched into my arms with a rush—it was all over; I loved her and she loved me. But how to get rid of Smith! For three weeks we held a two hour's conversation each day; and every day grew fonder of each other—but how to get rid of Smith? It was the first thing thought of when we met, and the first thing spoken of when we parted. At last we settled upon a plan which we deemed honorable, and just the thing for our comfort. To tell the truth, I did not feel altogether tranquil when I reflected upon the fact of my going the whole length into Mary's affections, knowing that she was engaged to him, and that she was deceiving Smith or myself, possibly myself, more probable Smith. One day Smith came to our house on a business errand. I drummed up sufficient courage to invite him on a walk with me down the brook, a goodly distance from the house, where we could not be interrupted. Once there, I seated myself on a rock, and invited him to help himself to another, and the following conversation took place:

'I should like to know why you have trotted me away down here?'

'Smith,' said I, emphatically, and at the same time putting on a look of awful potent, 'Smith I will tell you.'

'Well, out with it, what do you look so confoundedly silly for?'

'Silly, Smith! Do you love Mary Haines?'

'None of your business.'

'Business, Smith? Do you intend to marry Mary?'

'Why, you infernal Donkey!'

'Donkey, Smith? Are you fooling Mary Haines?'

'Fooling the d—l? What's the matter with you?'

'Matter, Smith! I love Mary Haines, & intend to marry her.'

'I have a good intention of giving you a thrashing!'

'Thrashing, Smith? I would not fool Mary!'

'No, I don't think you would; you're too big a fool for that.'

'Am I, Smith? Look here, Smith, I am going to cut you out.'

'If you go there, I'll kick you out.'

'Now, Smith, keep cool, and listen. You have courted Mary Haines for five years.'

'That's none of your business.'

'And everybody says that you are fooling her. Now, if you are courting her for the sport of it, then I calculate that I have a perfect right to go in for the sport too; but if you intend to marry her, I won't interfere. Now,'

'Well what next!'

'Do you intend to marry her!'

'As I told you before, that is none of your business—and if I catch you poking your ugly nose round the house, I'll punch your head for you. Now, don't open your lips again, but just think over how you can best profit by my advice to you. Be careful of your stupid pate, that's all.'

Levi Smith travelled. I stuck to the rock.

At first I was stunned with his display of stupidity in not appreciating my disinterested intentions; then indignant that he treated me so cavalierly, by-and-bye, furious to think that I had condescended to inform him of the laudable motives that had induced me to cut him out. Finally, I pulled off my boots and wading after pollywogs, in shallow water, thinking that it might cool me off, and thinking of Mary Haines, I got out of my depth and put my foot into a hole, and down I went all over into the creek, which instead of cooling my ardor, aroused a fierce desire to flog Levi Smith; not forgetting that he was considerable of a man, and considerable of a boy some six or seven years his junior, and in size, I bore the same relation to him that a pile of chips does to a cord of wood. For all that, I felt that my pluck was equal to his big body, and if opportunity had offered just then, I should have taken efficient measures to secure to myself a most comfortable thrashing—I have not the least doubt of it.

Night came. I was boiling over with indignation, and as snappish as a hyena after a brisk stirring up, and in that very pleasant state of mind, made Mary Haines a visit.—Walking into the front door in my usual way without announcing my approach by a series of raps on the door-casing, I made direct for the parlor, and as I stepped over the threshold was struck hard enough to fell an ox, by the discovery of Levi and Mary snugly stowed away in one corner engaged in the animating and gratifying [to them] pastime, sometimes denominating hugging and kissing. I made a sort of a stop, sudden.

'Good evening,' said Mary, in no wise disconcerted.

I dropped into the nearest chair and brought my left leg to horizontal, resting over my right knee, and then hung my straw hat over my boot and stumped Levi to knock it off.

'Stump me, do you!'

'I stump you—dare ye.'

No sooner said than done. Smith stepped promptly up and gave my hat a kick that sent it flying out of the parlor into the entry, then applied the toe of his boot to me in manner that sent me out of the front door. I thought I had never encountered a fellow more powerful in his legs. He did not follow me out—if he had, hang me if I don't think he would have met with something that would probably have induced him to renew the operation. Mary smilingly passed out my hat, and advised me to run home. The advice I considered particularly good, and availed myself of it immediately. But the way I pitched the rocks into Levi Smith's chicken-coop, as I passed his father's house, wasn't lazy, ha!

Well, the very next Sunday, the town clerk, after the forenoon service was over, rose up in the gallery behind the pulpit and read from a slip of paper, "The proposed marriage of Levi Smith to Mary Haines."

About a month after, I danced at their wedding, I have ever since comforted myself with the reflection that if I did not succeed in cutting him out, I stirred him up to his duty, Mary will never forget it! She named her first boy after me; a smart little fellow about seven years old now. She has five besides, all younger. A darling wife a treasure of a wife is Mary Haines that was but Levi Smith will never forgive me for hurrying up his cakes of matrimony.

A Difference.—'How much will you charge me for a horse and carrage to-day?' asked a well known individual at South End, of a stablekeeper, on a day when horse-flesh was in great demand.

"Four dollars" responded the other, and pointing to an antiquated frame of a quadruped at that.

"Ah! my dear sir you must have misunderstood me, I wished to hire the horse, not to buy him."

F. L T.—A good story is told of an Odd Fellow who kept a drygood store, and whose clerks being members of the order wore heart-pins bearing the cabalistic letters F. L T. A lady who was making putchases there one day, inquired of the proprietor what the three letters meant?

"They mean, madam," replied he, "few lies told."

'Aha!' said the lady; highly pleased, 'this is just the store I want.'

DOCTOR'S WILL DIFFER.

Hom œopathy.

Take a little rum,
The less you take the better,
Mix it with the lakes
Of Winner and of Wetter.

Dip a spoonful out
Mind you don't get groggy—
Pour it in the lake
Winnipissiogee.

Stir the mixture well,
Lest it prove inferior;
Then put half a drop
In lake Superior.

Every other day
Take a drop in water!
You'll be better soon—
Or, at least you ought to!

What is better than the Presence of Mind in a Railway accident?
Absence of body.

HYDROPATHY.

Take a large white sheet,
Wet it well all over,
Wrap your patient in it
Put him under cover.

Sweat him up and down
Sweat him night and morning.
Rub and rinse him well,
Thus give his fever warning.

Feed him on the wind,
Drench him well with water,
Then if so inclined,
He'll get well—or ought to!

'You Bill, if you don't behave yourself I'll give you a good whipping.'

'Well ma, I wish you would, for you've never given me any licken that I called good yet.

'Which is the next coach,' asked a person of a boy in the old country. 'Och,' replied he, 'it is just gone.'

Lord Broughman in a fix!—During the recent agricultural dinner at the London Athenaeum, Lord Brougham had occasion to leave the room to speak to a person who wished to see him, and on his lordship's return he had rather an amusing rencontre with the door-keeper. He was walking deliberately into the room when the official abruptly stopped him and demanded his ticket.

'My ticket!' exclaimed his lordship; 'why I have just eaten half my dinner.'

'I can't help that sir,' replied the door-keeper, who did not recoghise the dignified personage he was addressing, 'you cannot pass without a ticket.'

'My good man,' said his lordship, 'I have only this moment left the room, and am now returning to finish my dinner.'

'I am very sorry for it,' rejoined the obstinate official, 'but my orders are imperative, and if you were my own father I could not allow you to pass without a ticket.'

At this moment Mr. Breach, the proprietor of the Bush Hotel, who happened to be in the passage and heard the dispute stepped up, and helped his lordship out of the difficulty by telling the man in office whom he was obstructing, and it is needless to add that the door keeper was as much abashed as his lordship was amused at the mistake he had made.

Do not rely on apparance. We were informed yesterday, by a person who stated it as a fact on the landing of the steamship Falcon, an individual came on shore without hat, coat or boots. After looking around him for some time, with a free and easy, independent kind of an air, he called to a drayman and requested him to take charge of a pair of saddle bags, which were on board the vessel and convey them to Hewlett's. With some hesitation the drayman complied with his request, but on attempting to lift the saddle-bags found he was unable to do without assistance. The fact was, that they contained $40,000 in gold, which the coatless and bootless man had brought with him from California. We will guarantee that his costume to-day would not disgrace an exhibitor of Broadway. Truly, appearances are fallacious and deceptive.—N. O. Picayune;

CORNERS. Corners have always been popular. The chimney corner for instance, is endeared to the heart from the earliest to the latest existence. The corner cupboard! What stores of sweet things have its shelves groaned in manhood! A snug corner in a will! Who ever objected to such a thing? A corner in a woman's heart! Once got there and you may soon command the entire domain! A corner in the temple of Fame! Arrive at that and you become immortal

WASHINGTON CITY D C

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24 1849

CALLS UPON OUR FRIENDS—VISIT TO THE PRESIDENT.

Taking the advantage of a week's holy-day (while our press was repairing,) we took a stroll through the public Departments to pay our respects to our friends.

It being levee day we called upon President Taylor first, it being the second attempt to see him. Our old acquaintance, PAT the PORTER—who by the way is quite a clever fellow—very politely showed us, that is ourself and two Proteges, Sally and our "Help" Caroline, [the latter our Clerk] into the reception-room, and after leading us to seats, made a modest bow, and left us sole occupents of the room. In a short time however, a lady and gentleman came in, the lady took a seat and the gentleman withdrew.

It wanting some minutes of 12 o'clock when the President, punctual to a moment, makes his appearance, we had some very interesting chat with the lady, [name lost,] whose husband is a Captain in the Navy, while she resides in Alexandria to superintend the education of her children.

Mrs.————is quite a young, and beautiful woman, and highly accomplished, she had business with the President, and for her sake we hope she succeeded.

Meantime we kept our eye toward the door certain that we should know him from all the rest, as a few gentlemen had looked in and retired. At length a sedate, portly man entered bareheaded, and walked directly toward us with a slow dignified step, and a smile on his countenance, "that is the General," we observed, and sprang to meet him, taking the hand he offered. President T. salutes with much warmth and ease, and if there be a man on earth without a particle of pride or affectation, he is that man. He is a genuine copy of nature, viz. grandeur without art. Gen. Taylor bears a strong resemblence to some of the portraits we have seen of him, and appears to be what is usually called middle age, of the common height, and stout in person; with the most exact proportion in size and symmetry, and a graceful waving outline, which appears to great advantage when standing erect, or walking particularly. From his appearance he must have been a man of great physical strength in his day. His face is partially round with regular features, becomingly full, and originally fair; but is now somewhat weather-worn. His forehead, rather expansive, denotes a deep, tranquil mind, and a placid innocence which no language can reach. His brow—cool and composed, would indicate a firm intellect, and an even temper. His dark, soft, suasive eye is full, and glows with a mild ferver, which at once bespeaks capacity and innocence. His countenauce is open and ingenuous, and flows with the milk of human kindness. In his manners and dress, he is plain and artless, traits, which are inseparable from all men of sense.

In offering these hasty remarks to the public—the work of a minute's observation, we beg leave to apologize for its imperfections, from not want of time but want of light. The room being for what reason we cannot divine kept nearly dark.

COL. ORLANDO BROWN.

Col. B. is the late appointed Chief of Indian Bureau—and appears to be in the prime of life, rather above the middling stature, [to judge of him as he was seated,] with a stout stanch figure, and well formed. His appearance is striking at first sight; his face is round and full, with features of the most perfect symmetry, of the medium shade, and slightly defused with a carnation glow. His fine bland forehead is deep, smooth, and intelligent, and denotes a clear head and sound judgment. His ingenuous brow is the emblem of integrity, and bespeaks great equinimity of temper; it is finely arched, and a very becoming lineament of his face. But his eye eclipses the whole—it is a bright hazel color full and vivid, and keen, as a Kentucky rifle, while it sheds a soft radiance over his fine manly features, and shows benignity and great warmth of heart. His countenance is of the real Kentucky pattern (the State he is from,) being open, gay, and independent without fear, and without fawning. In his manners Col. B. is accomplished and genteel, and has all the suavity of a gentleman.

COL. LEWIS FITZGERALD TISSISTRO.

Col. T. is rather young looking, apparently in the prime and vigour of manhood; about six feet in height, and stout in proportion, with a fine graceful figure as ever came from nature's mould, at once displaying one of the most astonishing specimens of her power, either for manliness of form, or intelligence of mien. His face is full and fair, defused with a rich roseate bloom; while his noble flashing eye, dark and dazzling, bespeaks genius of the highest order. But the most striking of his splended features is his lofty convex forehead, it baffles discription—smooth and open as day, denotes magnanimity and grandeur of soul. His soft insinuating brow manifests an evenness of temper, and the most ingenuous candour. His countenance, erudite and commanding, breaths the very soul of freedom and independence. His manners have all the ease and affability of a thorough-bred gentleman. Col. T. is a native of Ireland, [if we recollect,] was educated in the city of Dublin, has travelled much, and was for some years a resident of New Orleans.

The Col. is engaged by the government to copy the ancient records of Mextco, for the Board of claims, now sitting in Washington.

J. BUTTERFIELD, ESQ.

Mr. B. is the new Commissioner of the Land Office, and has succeeded Col. Young, who has resigned.* He is a hale, stout man, in the prime of life, rather tall, with a well formed figure, though we did not see him on his feet. His face is partially oval, with regular manly features somewhat thin, and of the middling shade. His hair is dark, and his forehead deep, with a sedate and mild expression, while it bespeaks a mind cool, and cautious. His brow indicates gentleness, and a smooth steady temperament. His eye is a dark blue, or grey—for he was so intent upon writing that we cannot speak of it with accuracy. His countenance is mild and erudite, and denotes a studious and enlarged mind of liberal endowments. In his manners Mr. B. is frank and gentlemanly—he is also from Illinois. Really Illinois does herself great honor.

To be Continued.

* We are pleased to hear Col. Y. is about to reside in this city with his amiable family, which as well as himself are highly accomplished, and of the first respectability. It appears that the other Col. Young who for many years has been Chief Clerk of the U. S Treasury, has likewise resigned. We shall be exceedingly sorry to part with him. He is on every ground one of the most amiable men in the United States.

PARTIES—PEACE PARTY.

Of all parties spoken of in this country and in Europe, the peace party we hope will be encouraged.

To a nation or a people, so extensive as ours, abounding as it does with every production of nature, and of art, which can contribute to the happiness of man, enough for all, and to spare—why do our people, christians too, as they say they are, why do they not be at peace? christianity is peace, peace is the religion of Christ.

FROM THE HELENA AR. T. HERALD.

Concluded.

"In conclusion, I beg leave to assure you, gentlemen, that neither yourselves nor any other organized company of over-righteous, tract, temperance, bible, missionary, abolition, emancipation, colonization men can, though me, or any thing over which I can have the least control, accomplish any of your pious treasonable purposes, or in any other way interfere with the government. Nay, I am highly pleased with the christian piety of a respectable number of the citizens of this place and the circumjacent country, of the description of names you wish me to send, and therefore, will not lend to you or others any aid to corrupt their sanctify. With the fullest assurance that I will interpose all is my power to preserve the blessings of our free institutions from the ravages of our zeal,

I am, gentlemen, your most unwavering opponent,
JOHN STEELE, P. M."

Is it any wonder that our country is deluge with crime; crime of every color, and every degree, when the christian religion, a system breathing mercy and purify the religion of Jesus, is made a cloak for such barefaced villainy. The purest system of ethics the world ever saw, changed to a system of robbery, fraud and tyranny, suborning public officers to commit perjury, to aid them in guilt, which thousands of them have done, as we have seen; yes we have seen the shelves in the Post offices loaded with their so called gospel, tracts and pamphlets, and have seen them pulled out of the mail itself. "These are post-free sir," "they are madam." "What use can the people of this place find for so many?" "O, they are to be sent off through the neighborhood!" "Ah! and are you not perjured in smuggling such an enormous weight of papers through contrary to law and your oath?" "Well, I do not think it is right myself, but we are obliged to do it." "Who obliges you to perjure yourself in violating the Post office laws?" cheating the government out of its revenue, and Congress is obliged to appropriate some thousands of dollars annually to make up for these thefts, [for they are nothing else,] and all this comes off of the people, "and that is not half," says the Post Master, "look here all these boxes are the same, are left behind more than the stage can carry."

But mark the cunning of the sly hypocrites Messrs. J. N. Bolles, J. A. Whitemarsh, J. L. Burrowe, going to the verge of civilization to start their nefarious scheme, supposing the people in Arkansas, at that time a Territory knew nothing; what enlightened people we are! $66,000 in one Post Office in one territory, would have been no more than they doubtless get in all the Post offices throughout the country. These are fine people to school children.

CHARLES W. FENTON, ESQ.

What is this we hear? that Mr. Fenton has arrived safe at Cowa, so far so good; but that he has been disappointed in getting the mail contract is not so good.

But we do not believe it. We cannot believe there is a man in this administration, or in any party whatever, that would treat any honest man so—but we will hear more before we say more. There is something wrong in this matter, either on one side or the other, and the sooner it is remedied the better.

A captain of a vessel, loading coals, went into a merchants counting room and requested the loan of a rake. The merchant looking towards his clerks replied, 'I have a number of them; but none I believe wish to be hauled over the coals.'

When we see a neat, pretty girl with a free but innocent air—with cheeks which we can hardly help kissing, and with a pair of heavenly blue eyes, which seem to repose in perfect serenity beneath their silken lashes—we always wish that she was near a mud puddle, and that we had to lift her 'over. Go away strawberries you've lost your taste.—Albany Dutchman.

Blessed are the young girls who have no beaux to plague them, for they shall not be kept awake Sunday nights. We doubt whether there are girls who are single minded enough to desire to enjoy such a state of blessings.

'Will you pass the tomatoes,' politely asked an old crony of Jem,' at the dinner table. 'Excuse me my dear sir said the wag,' I have no time to attend to matters of that kind.'

Pretty Good.—A judge was reprimanding an attorney for bringing several small suits into court, and remarked that it would have been much beter for all parties had he persuaded his client to leave their causes to the arbitration of two or three honest men.—'Please your honor,' retorted the lawyer, 'we did not choose to trouble 'honest men with them.'

ALLOPATHY.

Take some calomel,
The more you take the better;
Mix it with a drop
Or two of cistern water.

Feed some to your dog;
It will make him vomit,
And may be, see stars,
And, perhaps, a comet.

Once in each half hour,
Take a rousing portion!
Say a tumbler full,
If that suits your notion.

Should you chance to die,
As you're almost sure to,
You may safely swear
That it did not cure you!

THE TWO BRIDES.

I saw two maids at the kirk,
And both were fair and sweet,
One was in her bridal robe,
One in her winding sheet.

The choristers sang the hymn,
The sacred rites were read,
And one for life to Life,
And one to Death was wed.

They went to their bridal beds,
In loveliness and bloom.
One in a merry castle,
One in a solemn tomb.

One to the world of sleep,
Locked in the arms of love;
And one in the arms of death,
Passed to the heavens above.

One to the morrow woke,
In a world of sin and pain—
But the other was happier far,
And never woke again.

Gravity of manners is thought by some to be a mark of wisdom—yet the gravest beast is an ass—the gravest bird is an owl—the gravest fish is an oyster, and the gravest men is usually a fool.

The best way to get help in the world, is to help yourself. Show that you need aid and all turn a cold shoulder; but prove that you can do without folks, and they beg to give you a lift.

PROSPECTUS
THE FRIEND OF YOUTH
A Monthly Newspaper.

MARGARET L. BAILEY, EDITOR.

The Friend of Youth will be issnd on the first of every mounth in quarto form, eight pages on fine paper, in neat new type, and with tasteful embellishments.

Our object will be to make the paper an attractive companion for youth. While we please, we shall also aim to form their tastes. In addition to agreeable Stories, Lessons on Natural History, Descriptions of Naturl Scenery. Sketches of Travel, and Notices of New Books for children, we shall converse, with them, in language adapted to their comprehension, about the important events of the present era. We know this is not usually done in such pnblications, but we think we do not mistake the taste or capacity of young people, when we suppose them to feel some interest in the world they live in, beyond the nursery, the school-room, and the play-ground. It shall also be our care to interest them on all great subjects connected with the well being of mankind. Freedom, Peace, and Temperence, shall receive our weep with the suffering, we hope to awaken in them a generous abhorrence of all wrong, and and an earnest love and reverence for all that is just and pure, and while thus inculcating the lessons of love to man, we can not forget the supreme obligations due to the great Father and Benefactor of all.

We hope to succeed in adapting our paper to all ages of youth, so that while the elder brothers and sisters have a full share of our attention, the little ones shall not be forgotton. They are our special favorites, and shall be cared for accordingly.

To secure variety of entertainment, we have engaged as regular contributors to our columns, several well-known and distinguished writers, peculiarly qualified to minister to the wants of Youth. Among them, we are at liberty to name—T. S. Arthur and Emma D. E. N. Southworth. In short we hope to make the paper just such a "Friend" as young people will be glad to see, and sorry to part with.

As this Prospectus may reach many of the former friends and patrons of the 'Youth's Monthly Visiter,' a paper which we established and edited for nearly three years at Cincinnati, we cannot forbear expressing the great pleasure it will give us to renew our former intercourse with them. The little children who then received the 'Visitor' as a welcome guest, are now almost grown up men and women. But they will perhaps find some little brother or sister or cousin to whom they may introduce us as an old friend.

The first number will be issued on the first of November.

The terms will be—fifty cents a year for a single copy, five copies for $2, or every person forwarding us four names, with two dollars, shall be entitled to one copy gratis.

It is desirable that the names of subscribers be sent in with as little delay as possible. All communications must be addressed to—

DR TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

Most extraordinary Medicine in the world

This Extract is put in quart bottles. It is six times cheaper, pleasanter, and warranted superior to any sold. It cured diseases, without vomting, purging, sickening, or debilitating the patient.

The great beauty and 'superiority' of this Sarsaparilla over all other remedies is, while it eradicates disease, in invigorates the body.

IT HAS PERFORMED MORE THAN 15.000 CURES THIS YEAR.

1,000 cures of Rheumatism.
1,000 cures of Dyspepsia.
2,500 cures of General Debility and Want of Nervous Energy.
30,000 Female Complaints, and over 7,000 cures of Diseases of the Blood viz:

Ulcers, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, pimples on the face, &c., together with nerous cases of consumption liver com p aints spine affections, &c. This, we are aware, must appear incredible, but we have letters from physicians and our agents from all parts of the United States informing us of extraordinary cures. R Van Buskirk, Esq., one of the most respectable druggists in Newark, New Jersey, informs us that he can refer to more than one hundred and fifty cases in that place alone. There are thousands of cases in the city of N. York which we will refer to with pleasure, and to men of character well known.

OPINIONS OF PHYSICIANS.

Dr. Townsend is almost daily receiving orders from physicians in different parts of the Union.

This is to certify that we, the undersigned physicians of the city of Albany, have einnmerous cases prescribed Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparills and beleive to be one of the most valuble prepatations of Sarparilla in the Market.

P H. Puling, M. D. R. B. Briggs, M. D.
P E. Elmendorf, M. D.
Albany, April 1, 1845.

The following is from one of the most respectable physicians on Long Island:

GREENPORT July 19, 1846.

DR. TOWNSENDS—Dear Sir—it is with satisfaction that I have recently witnessed, in several cases the most beneficial results from your extract of Sarsaparilla. Be engaged in the practice of medicine, I have prescribed it in several cases, and never without benefit. In the removal of diseases arrising from a deranged state of the disgestive orvans, jaundice, &c if far exceeds any thing of the kind ever offered to the public, You will please send me two dozen, &c.

Respectfully yours,
C, S, PRESTON, M D.

UNITED STATES OFFICER.

Capt G W Melean, Member of the Legislature, and late of the U. S. Navy; has kindly sent us the following certificate. It tells its own story.

RAHWAY Jan. 25 1847.

A year since I was taken with the influenza and my whole system left in a debilitated state. I was induced to try Dr. Townsend's Sarsadpolla,

B after taking two or three bottles, I was very much relieved, and attributed it entirely to the said Sarsaparilla. I have continued taking it, and that I improve every day. I believe it saved my life, and would not be without it under any consideration.

G W. McLEAN.

SCROFULA CURED.

This certificate conclusively proves that this Sarsaparilla has perfect control over the most obstinate diseases of the blood. Three persons cured in one house is unprecedented,

THREE CHILDREN.

DR. TOWNSEND—Dear Sir, I have the pleasure to inform you that three of my children have been cured of the scrofula by the use of your excellent medecine. They were afflicted very severely with bad sores; having taken only four bottles; it took them away, for which I feel myself under deep obligation.

yours respectfully,
ISAAC W. CRAIN, 108 Woost

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

A MAMMOTH PAPER.

DEVOTED TO MORALITY, PURE LITERATURE, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC NEWS, AGRICULTURE, SCIENCE, ART AND AMUSEMENT.

This paper contains from one-fourth to one half more than the generality of two Dollar city weeklies.

The Proprietors of the SATURDAY EVENING POST return their cincere thanks to their friends and the public for the patronage extended to them since the enlargement of their paper, and respectfully solicit a continuance of the same. The belief expressed in their last Prospectus, that the POST is destined to take its stand at the very head of the weekly press, is fast becoming realized. The reason of this is in a great degree, to be found in the stand the POST has always taken against the immoral literature of the day. The public have felt, in the language of the North American and United States Gazette, of this city, that "The Post has done much towards correcting the taste of the newspaper reading public."

TERMS.

The terms to single subscribers are 2,00 dols per annum, in advance, 3,00, if not paid in advance. For five dollars in advance, one copy will be sent three years.

TERMS TO CLUBS.

In order to accommodate the large number who wish to take a first class paper, but mistakingly think they cannot afford it, we continue the following low terms for Clubs—to be sent, in the city, to one address, and, in the country, to one Post Office:

4 COPIES,
8 (And one to Agent, or getter up of the Club)		10,00
13	do do do	15,00

Lady's Book for six dollars.

Three Copies of the Saturday Evening Post and two of the Ladies Garland for five dollars

Two Copies of the Saturday Evening Post, and two of the Fountain, (containing 252 pages of original letter press, and 8, of Sartains best Magazine engraving,) for four dollars.

ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

The Money for Clubs must always be sent in advance. Subscriptions may be sent at our risk (when the sum is large, a draft should be procured if possible—the cost of which may be deducted from the amount.) Address,

DEACON & PETERSON, No 66 South third Street, Philadelphia.

☞ Editors coppying the above, or who will give a fair notice of the paper [we ask not that it shall be praised, but be noticed] in their editorial columns, shall be entitled to an exchange. Such as are lready entitled to an exchange for the current year, shall receive our thanks:

N. B.—Any person desirous of recieving a copy of the Post, as a sample, can be accommodated by notifying the Publishers by letter, post paid.

Whitney and Dunn,

THE GLOBE,

Congressional, Agricultural, and Literary Newspaper.

The Editors of the Congressional Globe propose a new publication. To deserve the patronage which Congress has accorded to their reports of its debates, in receiving and making the Globe the official register, they intend to add promptitude to whatever merit has hitherto recommended the work. They will publish a Daily Globe, to record the proceedings and debates as they occur, and a Congressional Globe periodically as heretofore, embodying the reports of Congress separate from the miscellaneous matter which will accompany them in the daily print. To fill the sheet of the daily newspaper, it is designed to gather the news from all quarters, and complete the contents by drawing from every source whatever may be of most interest among literary novelties, and of greatest utility in science, art, or agriculture. For material the leading journals and periodicals of France and Great Britain, treating of such subjects will be consulted and it is hoped, advantageously used. Original essays, especially on topics connected with agriculture, wil be obtained from the most enlightened land practical men of our country.

The Globe as a newspaper, and as a vehicle of information and amusement in other respects will be under the charge of Francis P. Blair and James C. Pickett. The Congressional department and business concerns of the paper will be under the management of John C. Rives. The public are familiar with Blair and Rives as connected with the press. In introducing Mr Pickett as one of the concern they will be allowed to say a few words of him. He is a gentleman favorably known to the Government, for the talent and judgment which distinguished his diplomatic service while connected with the mission to Quito, and more recently when Charge d'Affaires to Peru. From him mainly the Globe will derive the selections and translations from the foreign continental journals and periodicals, the comments on them and the other literary articles which will be found among its chief attractions. F. P. Blair will give his attention principally to the English periodicals.

The Globe will be published daily during the session of Congress and weekly the balance of the year and will undergo distribution in the form of a Weekly Globe, a Congressional Globe and Appendix.

The Weekly Globe will contain agricultural and miscellaneous articles.

The Congressional Globe will embody as it has done for the last sixteen years, Congressional proceedings and debates exclusively.

The Appendix will embrace the revised speeches separately and the messages of the President of the United States and the reports of the Heads of the Executive Departments.

The Congressional Globe and appendix will be published as fast as the proceedings of Congress will make a number Subscribers may expect one number of each a week during the first four weeks of a session and two or three numbers of each a week afterwards, until the end of the session.

Complete Indexes to the Congressional Globe and appendix, will be sent to subscribers soon after Congress adjourns.

TERMS.

For one copy of the Daily Globe daily during the session of Congress, and weekly during the recess, a year, $5 00

For one copy of the Weekly Globe one year, 2 00

For one copy of the Congressional Globe during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00

For one copy of the Appendix during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00

For six copies of either the Congressional Globe or the appendix, or part of both, 5 00

The subscription for the Congressional Globe or the Appendix after the 10th of January will be $1 50. The original price of one dollar does not pay the expense of the publications in consequence of the great increase of matter published

BETTER AND CHEAPER THAN EVER!!!

☞NEVER IN THE YEAR!☜

A NEW PAPER MAMMOTH SIZE

Reduced price, Increased Beauty.

AND AUGMENTED INTEREST!!

The undersigned having purchased the disputed claim on the old Saturday Courier, and being determined not to be surpassed in the competition among the press For popularity beauty and excellence, will now combine the unrivaled and unapproachable material of the old paper, with the renewed energy enterprise novelty and spirit of a new one and will issue, on the 11th day of March, 1848 in the city of Philadelphia the first number of a new weekly Newspaper, of the very first and largest class, entitled

M'MAKIN'S MODEL AMERICAN COURIER

Published and edited by ANDREW M'MAKIN Now editor of the Saturday Courier.

Assisted by a gentleman, universally acknowledged as one of the most talented and popular writers of the age.

The farmers Department, of the Courier will be edited. It is expected, by the most distinguished Agriculturist in the united States whose name will be announced as soon as the pending negotiations are contempleted.

THE AMERICAN COURIER

Will contain the amount of eight more columns of matter than does the "Saturday Courier," and it will be conducted strictly on the CASH PRINCIPEL, will, with all its Artistic and literary improvements, be offered at a much reduced price to "Clubs,"

The editor of the american courier feels confident that not a pledge will be required of time to the character of the new paper, other than that it will be a family newspaper, neutral in politics and religion; chaste in morality and moderate but elevated in tone and sentiment. His long connection with the "Saturday courier,"—which, under at least his co editorship, reached the largest similar circulation in the world,—will be ample pledge that every intelligent and respectable family in the land may safely confide in his taste, judgment and energy, with the aid of comparatively unlimited capital, to cater for their mental appetite

The contents of the american Courier.

Among the standard features of the american courier, will be—a new series of 'Washington Legends,' by George Lippard, esq. The 'portrait Gallery' of poets and their poetry—each Biography Illustrated, Original domestic tales, by themost distinguished writers of the day. Original essays, sketches, poems, and letters on useful and important subjects. Engraved views of persons, scenes and things of interest Select tales from the best english and american authors. The "Modern Spectator, in wich it will be designed to

"Eye nature's walk, shoot Folly as it flies
And catch the manners living as they rise
Together with every useful novelty that ingenuity, skill and talent can advise.

THE FARMERS DEPARTMENT will immediately take and maintain an originality and value not approachable by any family journal in the land the editor having engaged several writers of known and acknowledged ability to furnish practical articles on model farming.

The markets, news and gossip of the day will be objects of special care in detail, and nothing will be left undone by mind or money.

TO THE FRIENDS OF "THE PLOUGH LOOM, AND ANVIL."

POPULAR as this journal is, and so far successful beyond any heretofore established, its income is yet something short of paying its own expenses, leaving the editors to live on air or hope, neither of which is very substantial deit. Now, as we believe that we have not a friend who would willingly see the man want bread who has been more than thirty years teaching others how to make it, we at once frankly solicit our present patrons to use their influence to average one more subscriber each, and then "the Plough, the Loom, and the Anvil," and those who are working at it, will be doing what is commonly called a safe business, and not until then. We are truly sorry to be under the necesity of making this appeal, for, could we afford it, we would rejoice, as on past occasions. to show that we would most willingly work as hard, gratuitously for the great industrial interests of the country, as we are now doing in the hope of at least a scanty support.

P. S. We shall not fail to note the favor if any kind brother Editor should give this a place in his paper to help along one of the oldest of the fraternity.

TERMS of the PLOUGH, LOOM, and ANVIL. $10 for five subscribers, $5 for two, and $3 for one, or $5 for two years subscription, 64 pages a month.
